Woodturning tools scotland

I reviewed my yesterday from Axminster, it was a present and reviewing faster than expected as it came out of stock at the time of commands and the weather conditions. I made mistakes in thinking I would have time to find some tools, I know I can get them on line next week but I would like to try and get some local if I could. So I have 2 questions, first do anyone know of anywhere I could find some, I live in Glasgow but I have reason to travel on Scotland for work. Second as I start up with AWVSL's Axminster and will make smaller items including feathers would be better with a set or getting one at a time, if so my order would get the chisel. Hi Steven, I would also recommend Burhouse. They have a nice shop, with a good set of wood and other wood work items, including wood tools and timber. There's also somewhere in Ayr (Just Wood) that advertises regularly at the back of Woodturning magazine, though I've never visited it and have no idea if it's good, bad or aloptic. Ian If you travel as far as Aberdeen, Grampian Power Tools has a reasonable stair-staircase selection, and there's an excellent bit supplier a bit further north just outside Mintlaw. Hi Just Wood in Ayr is pretty good – the owner is really helpful, Burhouse is also good, even if they haven't been stocking as many turning tools recently, and may be a bit priced, but then it's a tough business. Don't know about tools, but Reid' has a good selection of wood at the East End in Glasgow. pop thanks for the response, I was in reid timber yesterday, I picked up some pieces for a clock I plan to do soon. I'm going to stick others in the nav in tight, and I'll be on them last tomorrow if it's not just Sunday. Is it worth getting a start putting 5/6 chairs, If I found 2 or 3 quirks what should I get first? I think Burhouse opened on Sundays and closed Mondays instead. Might be worth checking. Ian Burhouse may be open, but the road will be a sheet of ice – caring – and snow chains! Is it worth getting a start putting 5/6 chairs, If I found 2 or 3 quirks what should I get first? Have a look at this thread where there has been a long discussion about a set of starting tools. Personally most of my work is done with a 3/4 spindle mower; a 1/2 spindle gouge with a part tool. If I'm making my bowl too I use a 3/4Gouge bowl. perhaps human: 22lgq6eo said: Hi Just Wood in Ayr is pretty good – the owner is really helpful, Burhouse is also good, even if they haven't stocking as many tools turn recently, and may be a bit price, but then it's a difficult business. Pete I finally got a chance to visit Just Wood (still not being Burhouse), had a good long chat with the owner, very helpful. pick up some tools, hopefully I will be able to spend time on the the over the holidays. I got a long way to catch up some of the stuff shown on here. Charlie in Just the Wood Ayr is very useful. He still had time to help with any questions or issues. His shop was quite massively out and was always a good spare of stock wood. It runs week-end opens a few times during the year, free to go in and excellent professionals are demonstrated. Adhesives are: standard PVA and high resize aliphatic. The aliphatic glues are developed by Scotch manufacturers Adhesive Franklin International and offer superior performance on PVA regular based scotch sticks. Alcolin's Professional Rainlift is the yellow rainlift market in the USA by Franklin as Titebond 50 and is a highly priced adhesive for luthiers, with Gibson Guitars using it only for bonding for neck bonding in their body, but of course, it's a superior high performance scotch stick to bonding any other project and have temperature properties. The aliphatic adhesive forms include additional resins to offer advantageous properties including water resistance, fast tactics for initial bonding and also minimizing the creep of the joints. Alcolin Ultra is a completely waterproof adhesive designed for use in areas where high humidity is a constant threat; ideal for work including, cutting boards etc and all external joinery. Ultra is also ideal for laminating timber for use on the ultrasonic as the formula is not affected by the heat generated during turning, a common cause of de-lamination. For general work Alcolin has developed his own PVA a Standard PVA [Alcolin Cold Glue] with a fast set PVA [Alcolin Set]. The PVA Glue standard offers high performance across all wood work applications, as well as leather, cork and carbon and poorest materials to make it a general target. It is especially suited to inner work and has a long open time for assembly operations more complicated. Alcolin Fast Set has equal properties but costume works where a quick bond is needed and allows a faster release of any clamp. The range of adhesives are available at 250ml and 500ml bottle Great Chart Shopp opening Time: Monday – Friday 9am – As I can teach please call in advance if you are looking for advice. Open most Saturdays by appointment only. Webshop open 24/7. At Olivers Woodturning we provide wood woodturners in the UK with wood quality tools, finishing wood and turning blanks from leading brands. Woodturners everywhere can trust the products and services that we offer. We only provide products that we would use ourselves. So why buy from us? As a woodturner myself I understand the products we sell with of the quality and availability. Although I'm fairly new to woodturning, I have provided tools, repairing and finishing products for many years and so I understand what makes a good product. More importantly, the sales service after sales we offer at Olivers Woodturning is second to none. We want to build a solid reputation amongst our fellow logs, so we only provide tool boxing from manufacturers who follow the same work ethic. On our website you'll find the woodturning tools that you need to turn and finish your turn to the highest standards, but we are still on the search for new products that might improve our work in the future. All available online or at our Kent store based on Woodturning. We want more than just another grocery store; we want to promote woodturning of all ages, and to help build a community for all the woodturners they share. Our online club includes a forum where you can chat to other members, show off your last job or ask for advice, so come and join and become part of Olivers Woodturning. We will run club competitions and pass on as much information as we can get. It will also have special offers for club members; those who contribute the most are getting the most in return! At Olivers Woodturning we hope to shape long-lasting customers and friendship, with a common interest in the art and craft of wood.
